

Software Solutions: MOLD DELAY

The Mold Delay software solution reduces the amount of products produced without label during the magazine refill process. The software modification delays the mold closing and thereby produces fewer products without a label. Lower scrap rate and reduction of injection molding material is the result of it.

